KAREN MILLEN APPOINT JOINT MANAGING DIRECTORS

Gemma Metheringham, Creative Director and Steve Price, Commercial Director, have been promoted to the position of Joint Managing Directors of Karen Millen with immediate effect.

Gemma Metheringham joined the brand in 1999 as Design Director, before being promoted to Creative Director in 2006. Gemma has been integral in evolving the distinctive design signature that the brand is now renowned for and has overseen all aspects of Karen Millen's design, product and marketing. Gemma's previous experience encompasses creative roles in both Next and Sears.

Steve Price joined Karen Millen in 2006 as Commercial Director responsible for the UK and International merchandise teams and has been instrumental in managing the brand's growth. Steve has a strong track record in Merchandising with roles at East, Sears, Rubicon and Arcadia.

Karen Millen is a truly international business, trading from over 199 Karen Millen stores in 35 countries from Europe to the US, Russia, Asia and the Middle East. International retail sales now account for over 48% of the brand's turnover and the brand will continue to build on its international success with further openings confirmed in the US and Europe for 2010.
